3 steps to making your home healthy

Hidden— but not harmless

Did you know that the air inside our homes is up to 100 times more polluted than outdoor air?

The progress we have made in building more energy-efficient homes has reduced the amount of outside air getting in. While this is great for the heating and cooling bill—it's not so good for your health.

Most of us have no idea what is lurking in our homes. Fortunately, there are several measures you can take to keep you and your family healthy.

Commercial Service Duct Cleaning can help you start an indoor air quality plan for your home.

1. Duct Cleaning

- Provides the ultimate “clean air”
- Removes years of dust and debris build-up
- Helps improve indoor allergies

We clean inside of register vents and vacuum out dust and debris. Then we brush inside the entire duct system from register to furnace. Finally, we clean and disinfect all registers/return-air grills. (See coupons on back.)

2. Air Quality Products

- Electronic Air Cleaners
- Humidifiers
- UV Lights
- Dehumidifiers

Using these devices can reduce airborne allergens, bacteria, viruses, yeast and mold in your home. They can also relieve dry nose, throat, and skin.

3. Maintenance

- Ensures proper system operation
- Offers better heating and cooling
- Maintains better indoor air quality

You save time and money with a Green RewardsSM Contract. A significant amount of heating and cooling problems are due to poor maintenance, resulting in emergency service calls.

Systems that are properly maintained have longer lifespans, operate more efficiently, and provide better heating and cooling comfort.

Dryer Vents

Dryer vent fires are more common in the U.S. than chimney fires—leading to over 15,000 house fires annually. Dryer lint is extremely flammable and can catch fire when exposed to extreme heat.

Our maintenance program will reduce the risk to your home.
